UD WRITERS WORKSHOP WILL FEATURE KEYNOTE ADDRESS BY CLIVE BARNES

DAYTON, Ohio, January 16, 1990--Clive Barnes, drama and dance critic for the New York Post, will give the keynote address at the University of Dayton Writers Workshop on Wednesday, Jan. 31 in the Kennedy Union on campus. Registration materials are available by calling (513) 229-4114, and registration is due by Jan. 29.

Participants will select four of the approximately 10 sessions that will be offered for the workshop. Some of the presenters will be: Terry Lawson, Dayton Daily News film and music critic; Sandy Folkerth, senior copywriter for Elder-Beerman's advertising and sales promotion department; Nicole McLaughlin, senior copywriter for fashion advertising at Elder-Beerman; and poet James Cummings of Cincinnati.

Barnes will give the keynote address at 1 p.m. for the workshop. He will also present the 10th annual Scholars Address at UD on Jan. 31 at 8 p.m. in the Kennedy Union Ballroom. The lecture, which is free and open to the public, is part of UD's 1989-90 Distinguished Speakers Series, organized around the theme of "America in the Age of Leisure."

Barnes has been drama and dance critic for the New York Post since 1978. Before that he held a similar post at the New York Times for 11 years. His experience in writing criticism and reviews dates back to 1950 when he served as co-editor of Arabesque and assistant editor of Dance and Dancers. Over the years he has written extensively on music, dance, drama and film.
